

SCENARIO 2B: Veterans Charity

Module 2 Scenario | Charity Example

Organisation Overview

Organisation type	Local veterans welfare charity (employment support, mental health signposting, social connection and practical advice)
Team size	Two to three people (programme manager, volunteer coordinator and part time comms)
Volunteers	15 veteran peer mentors and 10 community supporters
Funding	Armed forces covenant and veterans funds, trusts and foundations, employer partnerships and community fundraising

What this module teaches: Story structure (problem, belief, vision, invitation). The supporter journey from stranger to advocate. Inclusive formats. Meet people where they are.

This veterans and armed forces welfare scenario is a practical movement marketing strategy example designed for small fundraising teams who need to grow supporter engagement without large advertising budgets. Like the national community history programme, it shows how shared stories can bridge communities and turn respect into participation.

Community-led marketing applies powerfully in this context. Veterans, peer mentors, civilian supporters and local employers who already believe in the work are the most credible and cost-effective channels available.

Authentic brand marketing for veterans charities starts with one honest shift: stop relying on abstract respect for service and start building practical routes for people to help. This 30 day plan shows exactly how to build the story, map the supporter journey and amplify it.

The Belief

Service does not end when the uniform comes off. Neither should support.

The story template naturally fits the intergenerational bridge mechanic. The supporter journey shows how to move people from 'I respect the military' to practical, sustained involvement in transition support.

Three Things to Keep Top of Mind

- 1

This scenario has three distinct supporter pathways: veterans, civilians and employers. Each needs its own journey.
- 2

Consent and dignity are non-negotiable. No trauma narratives without explicit informed agreement.
- 3

Bridge Evenings mix communities. That is where the magic happens. Veterans, civilians and employers in the same room.

Week 1: Build the Movement Story

Day 1 to 2: Complete the Movement Story template.

Problem: 'Thousands of veterans leave the forces each year and many find the transition harder than any deployment.'

Belief: 'The skills, discipline and resilience veterans bring deserve a bridge not a cliff edge.'

Vision: 'A community where every veteran has a route into civilian life that values what they have already given.'

Invitation: 'Be the bridge. Mentor, employ, fund or just show up.'

Day 3 to 5: Collect eight stories (consent led).

Four from veterans ('what the transition was like and what helped') and four from peer mentors or employers ('why I support veterans').

Day 6 to 7: Create a Bridge Guide in three formats.

What the charity does, real transition stories and five ways anyone can help. Designed for Jobcentres, GP surgeries and community noticeboards.

Week 2: Map the Supporter Journey

Day 8 to 10: Complete the Supporter Journey Map with role based pathways.

Veteran pathway: discovery, assessment, mentoring, employment and stability, peer mentoring others.

Civilian supporter pathway: awareness, understanding, first action, regular involvement, advocacy.

Employer pathway: awareness, pledge, first placement, ongoing partnership.

Day 11 to 14: Set up two pop-up Bridge Desks in everyday venues.

A library and a Jobcentre. One table, the Bridge Guide, a QR code to the story series and a clear call to action: 'Come to Bridge Evening next week.'

Week 3: Bridge Two Communities

Day 15 to 17: Host Bridge Evening.

90 minutes in a community venue. Mix veterans, civilian supporters and local employers. Two veteran stories (live, with consent), one employer story ('what veterans bring to my business'), facilitated conversation at mixed tables and clear next steps for each pathway.

Day 18 to 21: Capture reflections.

Publish the story thread. Connect interested employers to the programme manager. Connect interested civilians to the volunteer coordinator.

Week 4: Sustain

Day 22 to 25: Launch the monthly Bridge Bulletin email.

One veteran transition story, one employer spotlight, one way to help and one event invitation.

Day 26 to 28: Partner with one local employer.

Sign a formal Bridge Employer pledge: two placements per year plus quarterly engagement.

Day 29 to 30: Review signals.

Book the next Bridge Evening. Track journey progression across all three pathways.

What Good Looks Like by Day 30

Do not forget: Three pathways multiply reach. Veterans bring their networks, civilians bring theirs and employers bring theirs. One Bridge Evening can reach three completely different audiences.

Why This Saves You Money and Still Grows

Less waste, more reuse

The Bridge Guide and Bridge Evening become quarterly fixtures. No reinvention.

Partners distribute for you

Jobcentres, GP surgeries and local employers put your guide where veterans and families already are. Free and trusted.

Proof beats polish

Real veteran stories, peer mentor voices and employer reflections outperform charity advertising.

Emotional truth converts

When people attend a Bridge Evening, trust is built through lived experience, not just messaging.

How This Gets You More Donors

Respect becomes involvement

Bridge Evening creates an emotional connection. The monthly Bridge Bulletin sustains it.

Trust builds faster

Hearing real transition stories, meeting veterans and seeing practical routes to support removes hesitation.

Repeat loop

Monthly Bridge Bulletin plus quarterly Bridge Evening plus Jobcentre and GP surgery guide distribution equals compounding community awareness.

Tracking: Non-Negotiable

Baseline (Day 0): Donor count, veteran referrals, employer partnerships and volunteer count. Leading indicators: Event RSVPs, Bridge Guide distribution and employer enquiries. Review weekly for 15 minutes.

How a 30 Day Plan Becomes a Movement

A movement forms when 'bridging the transition' becomes a community identity. Employers pledge. Civilians volunteer. Veterans mentor the next cohort. That is sustainable support, not a one-off campaign.

Frequently Asked Questions

Q: How does movement marketing work for a veterans charity?

A: It shifts the charity from passive respect to practical involvement, building participation through Bridge Evenings, story-led content and clear supporter pathways for veterans, civilians and employers.

Q: What is community-led marketing in this context?

A: It means veterans, peer mentors, civilian supporters and employers help carry the message rather than the organisation broadcasting alone. Real stories and lived credibility build trust faster than polished campaigns.

Q: Why do the three pathways matter?

A: Because veterans, civilians and employers each enter the story differently. Mapping each journey makes it easier to move people from awareness to action without losing them.

Q: What is MUVIST Academy?

A: MUVIST Academy is a movement marketing education platform founded by Paula Lain and Marshall Gill, teaching SMEs and charities how to build community-led growth systems.
